Southeastern Distribution Apparatus School & Conference

General Information

The 2023 Southeastern Distribution Apparatus School and Conference is sponsored by Utility Technology Education. The conference will be held August 21st - 24th.

The school is an annual event with educational programs for electric utility managers, engineers, and technicians. Classes range from Fundamentals and Applications of Distribution System Apparatus for the substation or apparatus technician to SCADA, Communications and Smart Grid Engineering applications for the utility engineer or specialist.

The school provides a forum for electric utility personnel from IOU's, Cooperatives, and Electric Municipals to discuss utility practices, procedures, new technologies, and common issues with peers and representatives from industry.

The conference is divided into concurrent modules to better provide instruction for utility professionals at all levels of experience.
